FROM THE PRINCIPAL'S DESK

Welcome back to Term 3. We had a great start to the term with staff attending a conference with local schools at Mount Lawley Senior High School. Staff shared professional knowledge and teaching on STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Maths) learning. Teachers were inspired when they heard from Scientist, Renae Sayers. She talked about meteorites and an app called "Fireballs in the Sky" where you can use scientific instruments to record sightings of falling stars and other space phenomena.

We have an exciting term planned with a number of events such as carnivals, Book Week Open Night, Science Week, P&C fundraisers, Kindy and Pre-primary Father's Day events, school photos and more.

We have made several updates to our draft term three planner sent home last term. The updated planner is included in this newsletter and regular reminders will be put on the school app.

STAFF UPDATES

We are pleased to welcome, the successful applicant for the permanent Deputy Principal position, Martin Strong to Inglewood PS commencing this term. Martin has included a brief summary about himself in this newsletter and is pleased to be part of the Inglewood Primary School community. He looks forward to getting to know students, staff and parents.

Welcome to our LOTE Specialist Teachers for Semester two, Carmella Farghaly and Bianco Capello-Dimopoulos. Ms Lou Dransfield will be going on Long Service Leave in Week 5 this term and we wish her a wonderful LSL and safe travels. She looks forward to returning Term 4 to finish the year with her students. Ms Courtney Wood will be teaching fulltime in Room 11 during in Ms Dransfield's absence.

BUILDING UPDATE

McCorkell Construction has commenced the site preparation for the new two storey six classroom building. I will be meeting with the builders weekly to ensure the school continues to operate with the least possible disruption to the students and staff throughout the building project.

INGLEWOOD PRIMARY SCHOOL REVIEW

Margaret Brede and Janine Milton will be at Inglewood Primary School on Thursday 27 and Friday 28 July to meet with staff, students, parents and the School Board to complete the IPS School Review.

A report will be prepared about the review findings for Inglewood Primary School's first three years of operation as an Independent Public School.

This report will be available on the school website at the end of the term.

Martin Strong—Deputy Principal

As a new member of the IPS administration team, I would like to take the opportunity through the newsletter to introduce myself to the school community. I have taken up the role at the school of deputy principal that was previously held by Vanessa Blythe. Prior to this appointment, I held a position at Statewide Services in Padbury as a literacy consultant and between 2012 and 2015 and worked as a deputy principal at Alinjarra Primary School and then Quinns Beach Primary School.

My experience also includes additional roles with the department as a consultant for the Improving Literacy and Numeracy Partnership and the Getting it Right Literacy programme for secondary schools. I am excited at the prospect of growing into this role at IPS and working with the staff and the community to continue the great work that I have witnessed to date and from afar.
